Notes

- On Thursday, November 26, 2009 (Thanksgiving Day) the markets are closed. Any trades conducted on this day (or after the markets close on the previous day) will get the closing price for the next day the markets are open-Friday, November 27, 2009.
- Friday, December 11, 2009 is the final day of the game; all trades must be conducted before the markets close on that day.
- Friday, November 13, 2009, Last Day to Make a Trade!
Unused teams will be deleted

*Note

- Trades should not be entered on the final day of the game (or after the markets close on the previous day). This is because teams would get the closing prices for that day with no more chances for the prices to increase. This means that teams would simply lose the 2% broker fees for these trades

REMEMBER that transactions conducted before the markets close on a given day (2 pm Mountain time) will receive the same day's closing prices; those performed after the markets close will receive the closing price for the following day that the markets are open. Rankings and portfolio updates are performed every night on days that the markets are open.
