Required Materials:

Management Accounting (2006) Hansen and Mowen, 8th Edition, Thompson Southwestern
(Custom Version for New Mexico State University)

Course Description:

Development and use of accounting information for management decision making

Course Objectives:

After successfully completing this course, you will be able to

- understand and appreciate why managers need accounting information
- understand the problem of cost assignment, the different cost assignment methods, and know when each method is appropriate
- understand how accounting information is used for planning, control, evaluation, and continuous improvement, and
- understand how accounting information is used by managers to make various operational decisions.

The purposes of this course are to learn to understand and to use accounting information prepared for managers. The methods and mechanics of the accounting will be discussed only to the extent necessary to be able to understand and use the information.

Blackboard:

Upon registering for this course, you will need to gain access to Blackboard. Course materials and assignments that will not be distributed in class will be posted to the course web site. It is your responsibility to ensure that you have the materials required for class and that all assignments are completed by the due date. You may access the site at <http://learn.nmsu.edu>.

Course Policies:

Attendance: Students typically find their first accounting course to be challenging. Historically, 25-30% of the students enrolled on the first day either drop or fail this course. As a rule, students who do not attend class do not do well. Conversely, students who are prepared for class and attend regularly tend to be successful. Approximately 35-40% of the students enrolled on the first day will earn either an A or a B. I strongly encourage you to be in class every day.

Wireless Communications: The use of cellular phones, pagers, etc. during class is distracting and disrespectful to the instructor and your classmates. Remember to turn off all forms of wireless communications before coming to class. If you must be contacted during class for any reason, notify the instructor in advance. The use of any type of wireless communications during exams or quizzes will be considered an act of academic dishonesty.

Calculators: The instructor will provide calculators for use during the exams. These calculators must be returned at the completion of each exam. Keeping the calculators or using any calculator other than that provided by the instructor will be considered acts of academic dishonesty.

Academic Dishonesty: I expect all students to conduct themselves with the highest level of integrity. Academic dishonesty in any form will not be tolerated. For a definition of academic dishonesty and its consequences, see your student handbook. For the purposes of this course, academic dishonesty includes, but is not limited to,

- copying another student's solution or allowing another student to copy your solution
- soliciting or offering assistance on individual assignments
- removing or copying pages or problems from exams or quizzes
- altering or forging withdrawal forms
- using any type of dictionary during exams or quizzes
- using any type of wireless communication during exams or quizzes
- using any calculator other than that provided by the instructor during exams
- any other activity that jeopardizes the integrity of this course.

Students with Disabilities: If you have, or think you may have, a disability that interferes with your performance as a student, you are encouraged to discuss this on a confidential basis with the instructor, the Disabled Student Programs Coordinator at 646-1921, and/or the Americans with Disabilities Act Coordinator at 646-7795. If you have a condition that may affect your ability to exit these premises in case of an emergency, you should contact any of the above persons immediately.

Writing: Your writing matters. The quality of your writing will affect your grades on exams and quizzes. Surveys of your future employers consistently show that they consider the lack of communication skills to be the greatest deficiency of the graduates they hire. Therefore, your work should always be professionally done (neat, organized, labeled, etc.).

Team Learning Labs:

Three team learning labs will be offered during the semester to help you prepare for the exams. The labs will be offered on Monday evenings from 7:15 – 9:15p.m. on September 28, November 9, and December 7. Attendance at these team learning labs is strictly voluntary.

Assignments:

Exercises and Problems: Several exercises and problems have been assigned. Many of these will be worked in class, and they will appear deceptively simple. They will seem much harder when you attempt them on your own. An exam or quiz is not a good place to try that for your first time. I strongly encourage you to work all of the recommended problems and exercises. For those problems not worked in class, a solutions manual is available in my office and in the Accounting Lab. These exercises and problems will not be collected for a grade.

Quizzes: Several take-home quizzes will be randomly assigned during the semester. The quizzes will be posted to Blackboard. You will print the quiz and turn in a hard copy in class. You must turn in the quizzes on the due date at the time they are collected by the instructor (typically at the beginning of class). Quizzes not collected by the instructor in class at that time will be considered late and will not be accepted for a grade. The only exception will be for students who miss class because of a university sponsored activity as described in the 2009-2010 New Mexico State University Undergraduate Catalog (p.20).

Exams: Two midterm exams and a comprehensive final have been scheduled for this course. No makeup exams are allowed. The only exception will be for students who miss an exam because of a university sponsored activity as described in the 2009-2010 New Mexico State University Undergraduate Catalog (p.20). If the percentage score on the final exam is higher than either of the other exam grades, that percentage score will replace the lower grade.

Participation: To help the instructor pace the material throughout the course, you are encouraged to actively participate in the class by asking and answering questions. During the semester, students will be randomly selected to voluntarily respond to questions. A maximum of one extra credit point per student per day will be awarded for correctly responding to the questions.

Grading:

Grades will be assigned consistent with the policy in the undergraduate catalog based on the following points.

Available Points:

Quizzes	100
Midterm exams (100 points each)	200
Comprehensive final	200
Total assigned points	500
Extra credit (participation)	25
Total possible points	525

Grading Scale:

450 – 500 points	A
400 – 449 points	B
350 – 399 points	C
300 – 349 points	D
0 – 299 points	F

The instructor reserves the right to lower the above grading scale.
