

COHORT-BASED DISTANCE MBA PROGRAM COURSE SEQUENCE

NMSU's Cohort-based Distance MBA Program is designed for the working professional wanting to continue their education without compromising their current career. The program allows individuals to obtain their MBA in 24 months through a hybrid course delivery method.

Courses are delivered online and include a synchronous component in which students are able to engage at a distance on one evening each week. The synchronous element allows for interaction between the instructor and students. Class videos are recorded and are available to students throughout the semesters.

The MBA cohorts start in the fall semester annually. Prior to starting in a cohort, students must complete the background knowledge courses with a grade of A or B.
