New Mexico State University’s Master of Business Administration Class of 2008 was the largest MBA graduating class since the program began in 1967. The Class of 2008 included 63 students who graduated on Saturday, May 10th, including our second cohort from Los Alamos National Lab and our second cohort from White Sands Missile Range.

Ken Martin presented information about the Stock Market Game at a seminar during the 2nd Annual Lt. Governor's Financial Education Summit. Approximately 40 teachers attended the seminar, and another 20 teachers heard about the SMG during a "speed learning" session at the end of the day. There was a lot of interest among teachers for financial education materials given the new state law requiring high schools to offer a personal financial elective course beginning next year.

Elise “Pookie” Sautter has been selected to serve a 3-year appointment as Southwest Regional Director for the Marketing Educators’ Association Board of Directors. The Marketing Educators’ Association is the premier international organization devoted to advancing the practice and scholarship of marketing education.